SEEING HIS WAY CLEAR.

GENERAL HARRISON'S SUMMER PLANS.

HIS TIME SYSTEMATICALLY DISPOSED OF-PRO-

GRESS OF THE BIOGRAPHY. Indianapolis, July 7 (Special).—General Harrison has now got his work in such a shape that he can coutomplate plans for rest and recreation this summer.
Aside from the attention required by callers and his correspondence, his time in the last few days has been largely occupied by General Lew Wallace, who will write the biography of the General to be published about the end of this month. General Wallace has spent several hours a day at the house of General Harrison, talking with him on the subject, examining family records and giving general shape to the prework. Only two things have been permitted to interrupt the progress of this work. One is the attention General Harrison gives to callers, and the other is the League baseball games that are now being played in this city. General Wallace is passionately fond of the National game and has never een known to miss a contest if he could possibly be Notwithstanding the extraordinary demand rushing his work, the distinguished author regularly every afternoon at 3 o'clock tells his stenographer that enough has been done for that day and together they go off to the baseball grounds. The warrior and author watches a game with the live interest that he would probably evince in viewing the movements of an army in battle. It is said that at his home, Crawfordsville, Ind., he is the principal patron of an amateur club which ranks as one of the best in the State League, and he has never been known to miss a game on the home grounds.

General Wallace's plan of work in preparing General Harrison's biography is somewhat original. All the information that he can gather in his talks with General Harrison or in his researches for data he has taken down by the stenographer at the time, and each even-ing these notes are written out. He reads these re-ports through two or three times and then, satisfied that he has in his mind all the facts, with an idea as to just where and how he will make use of them, he throws the stenographic report aside, not to be taken up again unless it is found that there is unavoidable d for it. He has already begun dictating the biography and he expects to have the work completed

With the biography out of the way, General Harrison will permit only three things to occupy his time as matters of duty. These will be his correspondence, his callers and general attention to some features of the campaign that it will be necessary for him to personally keep an eye upon. He has determined to not permit himself to be overburdened with work. In speaking of the matter, he said:

I have been under extraordinary strain during the last few days, and I have been doing a great deal of work but I am at a point where I can see my way clear and I shall not allow myself to get more on hand than I can easily do. I shall be up with my correspondence in a day or two more, and then I think I may take things a little easier. I see the newspapers say that I have been working until 11 o'clock every night. That is not true; I never work at night. I will not take any such risks of becoming overworked. I feel that I owe to myself and my rest at night, and make a rule to do so.

In a subsequent conversation General Harrison said that he had just been made a member of the

"In a subsequent conversation General Harrison said that he had just been made a member of the Ply-casting Club of Indianapolis." "I think" he said. "that I shall devote a couple of days a week to fly-casting at broad Ripple. I suppose I will be rather awkward with a reel now, as it has been several years since I have cast a fly, but I shall have shifted companions and I'll have good opportunities for learning over again what I have lost in the matter of skill. Hesides with three of its we are pretty sure to not return home empty-handed." Broad Ripple is a delightful little fishing resort seven miles distant frem Indianapolis. The General will begin his fly-casting from there next Tunsday, if nothing occurs in the meantime to cause a postponement of his first fishing trip.

A few days ago a telegram was published in several Eastern papers stating that three prominent supporters of Judge Gresham. H. M. Applegare. John Drwich and Isaac Lahne of Corydon. Indiana, had publicly declared that they would not vote for General Harrison. The three men named to-night sent to "The Journal," of this city, a statement declaring that there was no truth in the story. "While it is truo," they say in their statement, "that this is General Gresham's old hourso, and we preferred him to any other, the issues between the Republican and the Democratic parties are so wide that we could not think of lending any encouragement whatever to Cleveland and his free-trade policy by even refraining from voting from voting for Harrison. We believe in the Republican doctrine of protection to American homes and American industries as against free trade and British manufacturers. When a party has to engage in such misrepresentations as above quoted to make party capital. It is, Indeed, short of material. In conclusion, permit us to say that we are in favor of Harrison, protection and prosperity, and opposed to Cleveland, free trade and disaster."

A SPEECH BY GENERAL HARRISON. RESPONDING TO AN ADDRESS OF A BODY OF COM-

Indianapolis, July 7 (Special).-Three hundred comercial travellers called upon General Harrison tonight. They met by appointment at a wholesale house over a mile distant from the Harrison home and marched there in a body through the rain. As the that they should remain outdoors and insisted that they should enter his house, which they did, greatly to the damage of Mr. Harrison's parlor carpets. Colonel E. H. Wolfe, formerly Auditor of Indiana, in behalf of the travelling men made an address to the General, who replied as follows:

who replied as follows:

Gentlemen of the Commercial Travellers' Association of Indiana, and Visiting Friends: I most heartly thank you for this cerdial manifestation of your respect. It is to be expected, when one has been named for office by one of the great parties, that those who are in accord with him in his political convictions will show their interest in the in his position of the corresents, but it is particularly grati-fying to me that many of you who differ with me in political opinion, reserving your own opinions and choice, have come here to-night to express your gratification, per-sonally, that I have been named by the Republican party as the candidate for the Presidency. It is a very pleas ant thing in politics when this sort of testimony is pos-sible, and it is very gratifying to me to-night to receive it at your hands. I do not know why we cannot hold our political differences with respect for each other perconally. Our opinious upon the great questions which divide parties ought not to be held in such a spirit as will prevent us from extending to a political opponent the concession of honesty in his opinions and that personal respect to which he may be opinions and that personal respect to what the continuous centitled. (Applause.) I very much value this visit from you, for I think I know how to estimate the commercial travellers of America. I am not going to open before you to-night any store of flattery. I do not think there is any market for it here. (Laughter and cries of "That's good.") You know the value of that commodity per-fectly. (Laughter and continued applause.) I do not mean to suggest at all that you are dealers in it yourselves (laughter) in your intercourse with your customers, but I do mean to say that your wide acquaintence with men, that judgment of character, and even of the moods of men, which is essential to the successful prosecution of your business, make you a very unpromising audience upon which to pass any stale compliments

My memory goes back to the time when there were no commercial travellers. When I first came to Indian apolis to reside your profession was not known. The retail merchant went to the wholesale house and made his selections there. I appreciate the fact that those gaged, and possess great adaptability and a high order of you in return my most sincere respect and regard. (Applause.) I regret that there is not room enough here for your comfort (a voice: "There will be more room in the White House." Another: "We will take your order now and deliver the goods in November.") but I shall be glad if any or all of you will remain for better acquaintance and less formal intercourse. A DECISION BY JUDGE GRESHAM.

THE NOTED WABASH DECISION CARRIED TO ONE OF

ITS LOGICAL CONCLUSIONS. Chicago, July 7.-An important decree by Judge Gresham carrying out still further his famous decision in the Wabash case was entered here to-day, it having been ordered by him just before his departure East. The decree is in favor of the plaintiffs Brown & Patton, in the matter of their claim for rental for the use of the Toledo, Peoria and Western Railway by the receiver of the Wabash. The amount of the decree is $257,700. Judge Gresham in rendering the decision says:

1. The Wabash Company has a leashold interest and no more in the property of the Toledo, Peoria and Western Railroad and by the terms of the lease that interest was liable to be forfeited for the nonpayment of rent. The Wabash Company agreed to pay as part of the rent the interest, as it became due upon the first mortgage bends of the Toledo, Peoria and Western. The mortgage which the Wabash Company executed and which was foreclosed bound the leasehold interest in the Toledo, Peoria and Western property and nothing more. The relations be Wabash and the Toledo, Peorfa and Western at the time Humphreys and Tutt were appointed receivors under the orders of the court were with the entire estate of the Wabash Company in cluding its leasehold interest in the Toledo, Peorla and Western property. The receivers thus became assignees of the lease, and as such liable for the

2. The Wabash suit was begun to preserve intact the Wabash system for the benefit of that company and its creditors and stockholders. In order to do this it was necessary to prevent the forfeiture of leases including that of the Toledo, Peoria and Western, and the action of the court including the ap-pointment of the receivers plainly indicated that the ent would be paid upon the leased lines. At the time the latter suit was begun neither rent under the lease of the Toledo, Peorla and Western, nor interest on its first mortgage bonds was in arrears; and, therefore, neither the Toledo, Peoria and Western nor the trustees in its first mortgage had any right to demand possession of the leased property. It was at all times in the power of the court which appointed the receivers to direct them to surrender possession of the leased property.

3. The receivership embraced only the property of the Wabash Company and the court took possession of the property of the Toledo, Peoria and Western, not for the benefit of the Wabash Company and its creditors, and stockholders. No part of the expenses of the receivership can, therefore, be properly chargeable against the Toledo, Peoria and Western property.

4. The Toledo, Peorla and Western property was operated by the receivers from May 28, 1884, to June 10, 1885, and the rent which accrued during that period applicable to the payment of interest on the first mortgage bonds amounted to $321,080 45, which amount is due from the receivers to the trustees in the first Toledo, Peorla and Western mortgage, less $99,571 17 already paid by the receivers on that $29,571.17 already paid by the receivers on that account.

5. The right of this court to decree upon the claim of the trustees in the first mortgage of the Toledo, Peorla and Western for rent and for the use of the leased property during the time it was in the possession of Humphreys and Tutt, as receivers, is provided for and recognized in the orders and decrees of the court in the Wabash suit at St. Louis.

A decree will, therefore, be entered against the receivers for the fent which accrued during their possession of the leased property, less $60,571.17, the amount already paid as stated, which amount so decreed to be due shall be made a charge upon the property of the receivership as part of the receivership expenses.

On Friday night these toughs had a "blow out" on the opposite side of the street, in a place kept by a man named Thomas Marra. At a late hour they sallied out, numbering nine or ten persons, headed by Marra and "Knuck" Masterson, a well-known local tough, bent on annoying Tierney and repaying him for old

A SMALLPOX SCARE ON THE CELTIC.

MEBELY A CASE OF CHICKEN-POX, HOWEVER-W. D. HARPER THE SICK MAN.

The White Star steamer Celtic arrived at Quarantine shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday morning. She was due at her dock at Pier 45, North River, according to the bulletin at the White Star office, at noon, but she did not get there until 4 o'clock. This detention at Quarantine occasioned much alarm among the relatives and friends of the passengers, and that alarm was much increased when a rumor came to the city that smallpox had broken out on board, and that W. D. Harper was seriously ill with it. Mr. Harper is a brother of J. Henry Harper, and is a member of the firm of J. H. Bonnell & Co. He was accompanied on his European trip by his wife, three daughters, a nurse and a maid.

A "Tribune" reporter thoroughly investigated the rumor and found that while the action of the ship's surgeon had lent it some color, it was fortunately exaggerated. Dr. W. Cecil Fenwick, who is a member of the Royal College of Surgeons of England, is the of the Royal College of Surgeons of England, is the Celtic's surgeon. He told the reporter that Mr. Harper was suffering from chickenpox, but that he had at first been doubtful about the case, and had deemed it wise to be on the safe side. When the case was submitted to Health Officer Smith and two assistant physicians, the medical quartet came to the conclusion that chickenpox was Mr. Harper's aliment. The passengers grumbled greatly about the delay and inconvenience to which they had been submitted, but when they got ashore in the afternoon they were grateful for the caution that had caused their detention. Mr. Harper's daughters went ashore at once, this wife remained with him for an hour or two, until he was removed to his home, where he was at latest reports doing well, but still weak.

THE ELEVENTH REGIMENT HOME AGAIN.

The 11th Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., returned home last night from the State camp at Peekskill, and received a royal welcome from their friends on the East During the forenoon the regiment was inspected by the Inspector-General, who brought with him the original muster-roll from Albany, for the purpose of scertaining what truth there was in the charges-made that there were over 200 substitutes in the regiment. The result was that only two men were found whose names were not on the muster-roll, and these had been drilling regularly with the regiment for over three At 2.30 o'clock Colonel Stewart gave the order marched up Broadway, Park row and the Bowery to Grand-st., where a well-executed right wheel move ment was greeted with the cheers of the multitude which lined the streets all the way to the armory building, at the corner of Essex-st. There were over 500 men in line, and all marched well, making a fine 500 men in line, and all marched well, making a fine military appearance as they moved steadily up the street. Policemen had to be stationed at the armory to keep the crowd back.

The regiment was then drawn up in hattalion front in the drill-room, where Colonel Stewart made a speech before dismissing them. After referring briefly to the result of the inspection, he said that licuteman Hamilton, the Government officer stationed at Peckskill, had volunteered the compliment that there was better fighting material in the 11th than in most regiments; and he would ask nothing better than to command such a body of men in action. The response to this speech was so deafening and continuous that it was some time before the order to break ranks could be heard. The 65th Regiment, of Albany, under Colonel Welch, and a Provisional Battalion under Major Channecy, of the 8th, will occupy the State camp this week.

TWO TEARS CAUGHT BY THE DETECTIVES. Five dishonest men who were in the employ of Stern & Co., dealers in men's furnishing goods at Nos. 660 and 662 Broadway, were prisoners at Police Headquarters last night, and all except one of them were seff-confessed thieves. The firm had noticed the disappearance of part of the stock of fine shirts, gloves, etc., for several months, and had not been able discover the leak. Recently Mr. Stern asked Police Inspector Byrnes to try, and Detective-Sergeants Handy and Fogarty began to spend their days at the firm's place of business. Satisfied at length that some of the employes were the thieves, the detectives yesterday arrested some of the men on suspicion and questioned them. The arrests were made when the employes were leaving the store to begin their half-

Frederick F. Kniffin, who has been for twenty years a foreman in the firm's shirt department, made evasive replies when he was asked if he had taken any of the firm's property. He was searched and a half-dozen pairs of fine socks were found in his packets. They had been given to him, he said, by the porter, Daniel Webster. Kniffin's home is at No. 254 Thirty-ninthst., Brooklyn. He was locked up, still refusing to admit that he was a thief. Webster, who lives at No. 101 West Twenty-second-st., admitted having received goods from Henry Rahn, the shipping cierk, for himself and for others. Several stolen shirts were found at Webster's home. Kahn was arrested, and he made a confession of theft. His home is at Maedougal-st, and South Washington Square. He was identified by a clerk in a fancy goods store in Liberty-st, as a person who had been offering new shirts at suspiciously low rates. A number of stolen articles were found in Kahn's rooms. George White, a packer, of liarrow-st., near Bleeckerst., and Richard Cohen, a clerk, of No. 48 Arlington-st., were arrested also, and they confessed that they had taken part in the thieving. The five prisoners will be arraigned at the Jefferson Market Police Court this morning. It is believed that they have stolen goods worth over $4,000 in two years. admit that he was a thicf. WHAT YACHTSMEN ARE TALKING OF.

TROUBLE IN THE NEW-YORK YACHT CLUB-TWO COMING REGATTAS.

The New-York Yacht Club is expected to have an interesting meeting on July 19. Alexander Taylor, jr., has resigned from the Regatta Committee and his resignation will be acted on at that meeting. It is said that there has been considerable disagreement for some time between Mr. Taylor and his two associates, Messrs. Kortright and Peabody. There appear to be strong opinions about the trouble. The most interesting one is this: that Mr. Taylor has resigned to determine his official position on the committee, not for any retaliatory purpose. Mr. Taylor says that he resigned for many good reasons. He was elected a member of the committee, and yet was not consulted on any important matters; in, fact, not at all. He was absent for some time and when he returned, found his place usurped by Mr. Kortright. He wanted an explanation and when none was given, felt com-

All the officials of the club were out of town yesterday, but it was said at the club house that the worst was over. A friend of Mr. Kortright said that Mr. Kortright had not constituted himself chairman of the Regatta Committee; his name had appeared first on several documents and that was all. Mr. Taylor Kortright since 1875 and Mr. Peabody since 1880. The annual cruise of the Atlantic Yacht Club takes place shortly. Already many crack yachts have been entered and the cruise is likely to be the most mecessful one in the club's history. The yachts now successful one in the club's history. The yachts now on the list are the schooners Cilo. Southern Cross, Gevalia, Haze, Aylea, Vidette and Wivern, and sloops Stella, Anaconda. Roamer, Concord, Enterprise, Nirvana, Vixon, Viola, Wenona, Amaranth, Ariadne, Phantom, Rival, Wayward, Ilderan and Mistral.

The fourth annual regatta of the American Yacht Club will take place on Saturday, July 21. The course is to be from a buoy anchored off the club house at Milton Point, past Stratford Shoal Light to the stake boat and return. Several cups will be sailed for, among them the Atalanta's Challenge Cup, presented by Jay Gould.

MUHR'S STORY ONLY PARTLY TRUE.

Long Branch, N. J., July 7 (Special).-The case of Joseph Muhr, the wealthy jeweller of New-York and Philadelphia, who sent to New-York for a detective to protect him from his family, as he thought they meant attracting much attention here. Mr. Muhr, his wife, and mother-in-law, are occupying one of John Hoey's cottages at Hollywood. Mr. Hoey issued orders to-day that ne information should be given to newspaper correspondents by the clerks of the Hollywood Hotel. and they refused to tell even which cottage Mr. Muhr occupied, but said that he was undoubtedly crasy. is learned, however, that Mr. Muhr's family will take measures to have him confined in an asylum until he recovers his mental balance. To-day wanted an expressman to bring a lot of bargage to his cottage, so as to make his wife think he had just returned from Europe. Yesterday he tried to rent a room at the West End Hotel for two and a half dollars a day. He said that he was paying that rate for his room in his cottage at Hollywood, but he liked the hotel rooms better. He also labored under the idea that he was the owner of the restaurant in the West End Hotel cottage. It is thought that he can be cured by rest and quiet.

At the store of Joseph Muhr, No. 18 Maiden lane, in this city, the story about the dispatch from Long Branch asking for police protection was looked upon as a good joke. It was said by the masager that Mr. Frosheim, in going to police headquarters, had taken an unwarranted liberty. It was assurted that the latter was looking for cheap notoriety, and that Mr. Muhr's family had no desire to have him incarcerated in an asylum for the sake of getting his money. Mr. Frosheim, it was said, was not Mr. Muhr's confidential clerk, but merely a salesman. Detective Heidelberg has gone down to Long Branch, however, to see about the case.

A RUSSIAN PROTECTORATE PROPOSED.

BISMARCK FAVORS THE SCHEME-DR. MACKEN-ZIE TO SUBMIT A SEPARATE REPORT ON THE EMPEROR'S DISEASE-A SIGNIFICANT CON-TRACT WITH BELGIUM.

Copyright; 1888; By The New York Associates Press. Berlin, July 7.-The Czar has asked, in an autograph letter to Emperor William, that Prince Bismarck accompany the Emperor to St. Petersburg. where M. de Giers will formally present a proposal for a nominal Russian protectorate in Bulgaria. proposal does not involve the occupation of the counry by Russia. A candidate for the Bulgarian thronto be appointed by an ambassadorial conference to be held at either Vienna or Constantinople. If these terms are accepted, the Czar will order the army corps mustering on the Austrian and German frontiers back into the interior. Prince Dismarck presiding at a Cabinet meeting yesterday, stated these proposals and said he believed that they offered a chance for a peaceful solution of the question, and that he nded to respond by going to St. Petersburg if the Austrian Government coincided in his views. In official circles here doubt is expressed as to whether Austria's assent to the proposals can be obtained. The Pan-Slavist party of Russia does not approthe Czar's rapproachement with Germany. A Warsaw paper, the acknowledged organ of General Ghourko, asserts that the national party, with whom the Czar must reckon, is determined to reap the fullest results for the blood and money expended in the wars with Turkey. In the same article the Poles of Posen and Galicia are exhorted to rally around Russia in the approaching war with Germany. All Slavs, the article says, must unite against the insatiable Germans; and the promise is held out that when Germany has been vanquished by combined French and Russian forces the Poles will once more be joined in one nation under Russian protection. It is known that General Ignatieff has been making overtures to the Polish Committee in Vienna for mutual action against the Austrians when the war opens. The General proises the Poles and the Pan-Slavist party to re-establish some authority in Poland, including the areas annexed by Austria and Prussia.

While the statement is produced in the papers here. While the statement is believed to be true in substance, it is considered inaccurate as to details. No treaty has been concluded between Germany and Belgium, but it is known that Prince Bismarck has a written contract with King Leopold under which, in the event of war with France, German troops will be allowed to pass over Belgian territory. If France should be conquered, Belgium is to be permitted to annex the French departments of Pas-de-Calais, Somme, Aisne and Ardennes.

OBITUARY.

EDWARD AVERY FARRINGTON.

Edward Avery Farrington, son of ex-State Treasurer Thomas Farrington, of Tioga County, and 30. Mr. Farrington had been in Europe for over a year with his wife, partly for health and partly for he enjoyment of travel. His death was a severe blow to his family, and to his many friends.

Mr. Farrington was appointed midshipman at the Naval Academy at Annapolis, but retired from the service in the latter part of 1863. He entered the Consular service of the Government, for which he seemed well fitted, about 1875, and filled the office of United States Consul at Valencia, Spain, so long as that consulate was maintained by the Govern ment, with credit, and with honor to the service About ten years ago he married a daughter of J. F. D. Lanler, the well-known banker. Mr. Farrington's death is mourned by a large number of deeply attached friends, and he possessed the respect and con fidence of men in both social and business circles. Mr. Lanier's affection for Mr. Farrington and his confidence in his personal integrity and character were strong and outspoken down to his death, and he gave him an unwavering trust to the close of his life, which was never betrayed. Mr. Farrington was a man of his word, and his promises were sacred things, not

In the relation of friend and husband, Mr. Farrington's character was admired. He was generous to his friends, and his hand and heart were ever open to the appeals of friendship, deserved or unmerited. He was also a faithful husband and devoted com-panion. It can be said with justice to Mr. Farring-ton's memory that few men in private life have died leaving more attached friends, or have been more un-selfish, in their alms and purposes, or have admin-istered the trusts and confidence of others with greater fidelity.

THE REV. DR. JOHN C. MIDDLETON. The Rev. Dr. John C. Middleton, the rector of St. Paul's Church, Glen Cove, L. I., died yesterday at the home of his brother, Charles N. Middleton, No. 531 Manhattan-ave., after a long and serious illness. He had come to his brother's home for a visit, and to enjoy a change during a confidently-expected period of convalescence, but on Thursday night he had a stroke of apoplexy, from the effects of which he died.

Dr. Middleton was born in New-London, Conn., in February, 1833. He was educated in the Williston Seminary, East Hampton, from which he entered Yale College, graduating with honors in 1859. He studied theology in the Berkely Divinity School, Middletown, Conn., and was ordained deacon in the Episcopal Church in 1860. He went at once to be the assistant of Bishop Littlejohn, then rector of the Church of the Holy Trinity, Brooklyn. Later he served as rector at Stonington, New-Britain and last in Glen Cove, where he has ministered since 1874. He was principal of St. Paul's School, Gien Cove, from 1574 to 1875; warden of the Cathedral Schools in Garden City from 1877 to 1879; one of the incorporators of the Cathedral of the Incarnation, of the Diocese of Long Island; a member and chairman of the Committee on Christian Education in the diocese, and the editor for several years of "The Teachers' Helper," and Church Sundayschool lesson leaflets, in the United States, Canada, and the West India Islands. He was also a well-known ontributor to religious papers and magazines, and was the author of several poems and many Sundayschool and church hymns. It was his regular custom for many years to write the carols for Christmas and Easter in his own parish church and school.

THE REV. DR. GEORGE DUFFIELD. The Rev. Dr. George Duffield, the hymn writer, and author of "Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus," died sud-dealy of heart disease, at his home in Bloomfield, N. J., yesterday. Dr. Duffield was born in Cumberland, Penn., in 1818. He was graduated from Yale College in the class of 1847, and took up his first pastorate in Brooklyn. From 1878 to 1885 he served as regent of the State University of Michigan. AN EARLY CALL FOR VOTES.

BOODLE IN CIRCULATION-A PROMINENT MAN-

UFACTURER OFFERING TWO DOLLARS APIECE POR VOTES-HOW THE MATTER IS WORKED The contest between Cleveland and Harrison will be most exciting, and its result will have a great and lasting effect upon every branch of the business community, for the manufacturer fears to take orders because he does not know whether or not foreign goods will be run in upon us free of duty; the importer dare not arrange for bringing in any considerable lines of goods because he does not know whether or not there will be a prohibitory duty upon them; and the dealer is between the upper and the nether m feeling that whichever way he buys the tariff will be changed and he will lose by it. As between the importer and the manufacturer, "one is afraid and the other dasn't." The officeholder quakes in his boots lest he be turned out, and his would-be successor is lying awake of nights lest he may not get in. To know at this early date which of the two parties will win will be worth considerable alike to the manufacturer, the importer, the membant, the officeholder, and last, but not least, the man who is about to make bets on the result. It is to obtain this information in advance of every one else that the Caw's Ink and Pen Co., of 189 Broadway, offers #2 apiece for votes.

HOW THE OFFER IS WORDED. The offer is made in such an ingenious manner that there cannot be urged against it even a moral objection; and as to violating the law against bribery, it does not come within gunshot of it. It is briefly this: The Company will send by mail postpaid one of its famous "Dashaway" double feed fountain pens (being a large gold pen fitted in a handsomely engraved and gold-mounted fountain holder and worth $4) to every one who incloses $2 in an envelope, together with a slip of paper, about three inches on which is written the applicant's name and address followed by the name "Cleveland" or "Harrison," according to which is the writer's choice for President, as per copy below.

Name..... Address For President

On receipt of this letter (which must be addressed to the Caw's Ink and Pen Company, 189 Broadway, New-York, and must be mailed not later than July 20, the Caw Company will send to each one the pen by mail, postpaid, in a neat box containing filter and directions for use, together with a printed slip of paper showing the number of votes which each candidate has received, classified by States.

It is expected that between 100,000 and 150,000 voters will respond to this liberal offer, as the Company has advertised it in every prominent paper in the country and the candidate receiving the majority of votes out of this number—coming as they will from every State—will undoubtedly be our next President.

The Caw's Ink and Pen Company has in view two objects. One is to know for their own benefit four months in advance of the election whether Mr. Elevaland with his free trade doctrines will be our next President, or whether our "infant industries" will be protected under the able leadership of General Harrison. The other is to introduce the "Dashaway" pen into every corner of the United States. The extense of the Company will be great as the Leuse cost pen into every corner of the United States. The ex-pense to the Company will be great, as the pense cost nearly $3 to manufacture, but it expects to come our ahead in the end. As for the voters, they receive for $2 information that will be of inestimable value, to say nothing of the pen, which cannot be bought regularly for less than $4.

WHAT THE PEN IS.

To those who may not be familiar with the " Dashway" it may be said that it is a fountain pen, with which you can dash away for hours at a time without dipping for ink, or giving a thought to anything but what you are writing. It carries ink enough to write about fifty pages of foolscap, and can be carried in the pocket ready for use at all times. Whether writing continuely at the desk or when travelling, the "Dashway" can always be relied on.

writing continually at the desk or when travelling, the "Dashaway" can always be relied on.

It works equally well with all kinds of link, is cleaner to handle than a lead pencil, and when carried in the pocket is closed with an air-tight cap which prevents the link from drying up. They are used by several on the stail of this paper and by many of its correspondents, and so far as we know they give excellent satisfaction. The principal advantage over other fountain pens is in the use of two feeding shafts, one lying along the top of the pen and the other along the under side. By this means a perfectly regular flow is insured, and under such admirable control that the supply of link is always exactly suited to the writer's demands.

NOT A MONEY-MAKING SCHEME

When it is understood that the "Dashaway" sent out on this occasion is a large, first quality diamond-pointed gold pen, fitted in a handsomely engraved and gold-mounted vulcanized rubber holder, the gold pen alone being well worth $2, it will be seen that this is not a money-making scheme in the sense of trying to sell goods at a profit. Under no circumstances can any one buy for less than $4 these pens, which are here offered for $2.00 to all who apply before July 20 with enclosures as stated above, but not more than one pen will be sent to each applicant unless the full price is paid. It is safe to assume that no one will regret sending $2 to the Caw's Ink and Pen Company, 150 Broadway, New-York, for the valuable information concerning the Presidential election (which will be verified under oath) and a handsome $4 fountain pen thrown in.—("The World." sent out on this occasion is a large, first quality

A VETERAN BILLIARD PLAYER DYING Another old-time sportman is possing away in the erson of Melvin Foster, who lies at his home, No. 1,521 Broadway, in the last stages of consumption. His doctor told a Tribune reporter Friday that Foster could not possibly live many hours. Foster's career has been remarkably eventful. He was born at Rutland, Vermont, in 1843. Early in his career, Foster developed a tasta for billiard playing, and soon attracted considerable notice from the sporting fraternity of his native district. In 1863 he came to New York, and took charge of Dudley Cavanagh's famous rooms, in Tenth-st. Soon after his arrival here he was matched for $1,000 to play Joe Dion, and suffered an early defeat, meeting with no better fortune in a return match the same fail. In 1803 Foster went to Chicago and there met McDevitt, with whom he engaged in a match for a large stake, but abandoned the contest on the plea of unfair play. The matter was referred to arbitration, and McDevitt received

TO PULL DOWN AND BUILD GREATER.

A rumor was circulated yesterday that the Trinity Church vestry, at a meeting a few days ago, resolved Luke's, in Hudson-st., and re-creet them in Seventyfourth and One-hundred-and-seventy-fifth-st., respectively. In the place of these two churches, it is proposed to erect on the West Side a chapel with twice the scating capacity of St. Augustine's, Houston-st. and the Bowery, with a mission house and schools attached. St. Augustine's Chapel, which is under the charge of Trinity Parish, cost nearly $75,000, including the land, six lots, on which it stands. It is estimated that the total expenditure required to carry out the proposed scheme will reach $1,500,000. No confirmation of the details of the plan could be obtained yesterday, but it was learned that the question had been under consideration for some time. No confirmation of the details of the
